

ARMA International Region Advisory Board

ARMA International's Region Advisory Boards are a team of dedicated members who sit at the middle of the association's circle of communication offering support to chapter leaders and insight to headquarters. Regional leaders are empowered to communicate and support the integration of ARMA International's strategic plan in the world's local communities. The 120 chapters that make up the association's local education and networking program are divided into 11 geographical regions: eight in the United States, one in Canada, one in Europe and the rest make up the International Region. Each region is led by a team of knowledgeable and experienced volunteers consisting of one Region Director and three Chapter Advisors, each of which specialize in a functional area of chapter operations. The regional functional areas provide leadership support and direction to the corresponding chapter Board positions as expressed in the chart below.

Functional Areas Organizational Structure:

Regional Team Members	Corresponding Chapter Board Position(s)
Region Directors	President and Vice President
Membership & Marketing	Officers involved with Membership and/or Marketing (Communications)
Education & Programming	Officers involved with Education and/or Programming
Operations & Governance	Treasurers and Secretaries

There are many benefits to joining the region level of ARMA International. Each leader is in contact with all chapters of their region expanding their professional network as well as learning the many different ways that chapters have found success in establishing their grassroots communities. In addition, each has free access to ARMA International's Professional Leadership Certificate, a free trip and registration to a Region Leadership Conference every summer, and the opportunity to visit chapters to provide in-person direction and support. Above all, our region leaders get the invaluable experience of being a high-level leader in our mission to provide information professionals the resources, tools, and training they need to effectively manage records and information within an established information governance framework.

Before applying, please review the information below and familiarize yourself with the expectations. If you have any questions, please contact chapters@armaintl.org.

Chapter Advisor of Education & Programming

Purpose:

To provide assistance and direction within the education & programming functional areas to the related chapter positions within each chapter of the region. The chapter advisor acts a sounding board for chapters and should explore their pain points and identify successes. The chapter advisor should coordinate opportunities to allow chapter leaders to discuss and learn from each other about the delivery of the content their chapters provide.

Areas that should be explored with chapters in the region include but are not limited to:

- Event schedules and programming
- Brainstorming topics and delivery method of content
- Assist in finding speakers and or brainstorming topics
- Assist in marketing sessions

The chapter advisor should discuss chapter pain points and success with the Region Director and provide feedback to ARMA HQ as appropriate.

Duties & Responsibilities:

- Provide training and conference call forums to chapter Officers of Education & Programming on the above mentioned items as well as any other items falling under their purview in relation to chapter operations
- Provide a communication link between Chapters and the Membership Department at ARMA International Headquarters
- Collaborate with ARMA HQ in planning Region Leadership Conferences and participate in programming as appropriate
- Submit an activity report to the Region Director 45 days prior to the spring and fall ARMA International Board meetings
- Visit chapters by request, prior approval, and per the direction of the Region Director and/or ARMA International Headquarters
- Assist Region Director in organizing new chapters in the region
- Assist with Region operations and initiatives per the direction of the Region Director
- Forward feedback and questions from chapters as well as unaffiliated members to the ARMA International Board of Directors or ARMA Headquarters, as appropriate
